IV-1. BUSI 5510 - Managing Innovation and Creativity
Description: Creativity and innovation are keys to an organization’s ability to gain competitive advantage and survive in today’s, and even more important, tomorrow’s marketplace. This course provides students with an understanding of how creativity and innovation can be facilitated and managed in a work setting using three forms of thinking… design thinking, systemic thinking, and systems thinking. Students will learn about theoretical conceptualizations of these thinking constructs as well as practical applications involved in fostering creativity and innovation in the workplace. Students will play an active role in learning through live projects, class exercises, class discussions, dialogue with guest speakers, participating in industry visits, and presentations about real (or planned) innovations in organizations. This course focuses on understanding how to apply the methodologies learnt to challenges in business and society.

IV-2. BUSI 5520 - Industry Visits

Description: This course revolves around industry visits and involves dealing with topics that may or may not be covered in other MBA classes. This course may also have guest speakers on different topics designed to enrich your experience. The goal is to expose students to different businesses, and issues facing these businesses. Further, it is hoped that students will learn to synthesize your experiences from these industry visits, information from both secondary and primary sources, and what they are learning in other classes. After every industry visit students will be preparing a white paper for the focal firm. Given the ambiguous nature of these industry visits and the challenges they pose, UNCERTAINTY is an integral part of this course, and the students will have to learn to deal with it and create value for the firm and for themselves.
